

Young Chef Competition

Two of our Queensmill students took part in the Young Chef Competition on Thursday 23rd February 2017. The event was hosted by Ealing, Hammersmith & West London's College TASTE restaurant in Barons Court where the finalists had just one hour to prepare two courses from fresh ingredients on a £7 budget.

It was fantastic to see the students working in the professional kitchen and it was interesting to see how much the dishes they prepared had evolved since our in-house competition in November. Lucio, our Queensmill chef, did a wonderful job in developing the dishes with the students in preparation for the competition and the students worked hard and practised their dishes prior to the event.

There were some amazing entries - our own included - and it was a difficult task for the local judges from Wagamama, Jamie's Kitchen, and The Dorsett Hotel who were led by Sian Wyn Owen, the head chef of the prestigious River Café in Hammersmith. The judges were impressed with the high quality of the meals and had some difficulty in selecting a winner.

We did not win this time but the heat is on for next year!
